THE NEWS IN THE BLUFFS.

Very Little Change in the Status of the School Board Fight.

Savage Fight with Bare Knuckles.

Two Bloods Settle the Question of Superiority in the Ring—The Court House Janitor—Mimor Mention.

The status of the school board fight remains unchanged. Each side is determined to hold on to the bitter end.

A reporter sought out Mr. Stewart, president of the school board, at his office yesterday, and found him as busy as usual, and seemingly in no humor to talk about school matters.

What's new? "Nothing." "What do you think of Mr. Schoetgen's position relating to school matters?" "Great Heavens, man! What can't I do? I can't take time to tell you, and don't know as it makes any difference to you or your readers what I think. John is a great big fellow, and I don't think he has any many positions. He expressed a veiled or so, in his language I will not repeat, that a certain teacher should not have a school. His description of Mr. Hunter and Mr. Blinnis was well known to all.

at a how was struck. The twelfth was also very high, though had bloody nose when time was called.

The thirteenth round showed pretty conclusively that Myer's fighting prowess and his ability to stand punishment were better than Sampley's. In the fourteenth round both fought hard, and either could have been knocked out by a somewhat heavy blow, but neither had the strength to deliver it.

The fifteenth round was mostly sparring, Sampley clearing without success to get a knockout.

This far Sampley had done all the leading. He had hit his opponent probably forty times, and had been hit probably not ten times.

Relying upon his second's advice, Sampley forced the fighting in the sixteenth round, but was quickly winded when one of Myer's savage lunges caught him in the eye, and he fell, his head striking with stunning effect on the platform.

Time was called, but he could not respond further than to raise up and look vaguely around. The referee then declared the fight won by Myer, and he was awarded the stakes.

The parties who witnessed it said it was a savage battle, and that the fight was well fought. Myer's second, however, was not so sure, and he was heard to say that his client was "chick."

The Court House Janitor. The board of supervisors at its meeting yesterday morning reconsidered the action taken the day previous in fixing the salary of the janitor of the court house.

Mr. Kelly's bid was $3,000 a year, for the year ending Wilkins' $2,820. After Mr. Kelly had been declared the lowest bidder and elected Commissioner Graham moved that the salary be fixed at the same figure as last year, and the motion prevailed.

Mr. Graham made the motion without thoroughly understanding the situation and did not realize that his work was being left to the lowest bidder.

The salary increase was a matter of surprise to a majority besides the newly elected janitor, and all the political capital was at once made of it. When the board was called upon to accept Mr. Kelly's bid, the board refused to do so.

Mr. Kelly was highly recommended for the place, some of the strongest letters coming from his former employers. The Calumet elevator company, for which he worked, is one of the greater part of the time prior to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy strike.

lar business of the association and fixing up the last stand of the Loveland picnic held last Sunday. The meeting was well attended, as the Union is very strong. At the conclusion of the regular business they authorized the publication in this issue of the following communication concerning the picnic:

To the Editor of The Bee: We desire to correct some misapprehensions and misstatements concerning the late picnic at Loveland. The receipt of the association for the day was $225 less than the expenditures, and we consequently lost just that amount.

Mr. Wainman had the privileges of the bar, into his claim, to have the expenses of the butchers had no fight, nor were any of them threatened by any one. It was the Missouri Valley fellows and the farmers that came to the picnic grounds, and also Mr. Sargent, the editor of the Omaha Daily Bee, who were the only ones who were not to come, but because they were ordered to work Sunday, August 31.

A Card from Mr. Ross. To the Editor of The Bee: I wish to have just a little more reference to an article I read in your issue in regard to the matter of a man called Ross. He accounts so pretentious whatever for the thrashing he proceeded for being a dumb animal. Now I wish to state that when I appeared to him to be a man of some intelligence, he was so straitening me, when I promptly knocked him down a couple of times and ended by sitting on top of him and holding him down, instead of jumping on him with both feet, as the paper stated.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Assignment of Teachers for the Ensigning Year.

When the board of education was called to order last night with Mr. McConnell in the chair, the committee on teachers was holding a tedious session with Superintendent James. Members of the committee came out of the superintendent's office and answered to roll call and went back again to deliberate over the assignment of places for the teachers during the year.

The other members of the board proceeded to the business of the evening. In response to an advertisement some bids were presented for the building of several fundaments under school buildings. The bids were all submitted, and the secretary was instructed to advertise for bids.

Miss McCann requested the board, on account of ill-health, to grant a leave of absence for one year. The request was granted.

The board then took a recess of ten minutes to permit the committee on teachers to complete its work.

After the recess the committee to which was referred the application of Miss O'Neill for leave of absence, and the matter was referred to the committee on high school.

The chairman then called for the consideration of new business, and stated that the opening of bids upon the new eight-room building for the high school grounds would be taken up.

Mr. Poppleton moved that when the board adjourned it be to meet on Monday night, and that the committee on high school be secretary unopposed until that time. This motion did not meet with general approval and was withdrawn.

Mr. Poppleton moved that the board be adjourned for three quarters of an hour. It was plainly evident that the friends of the high school were ready to take up the bids and dispose of them.

After the recess, however, the board adjourned to meet on Monday night at 8 o'clock. The committee on teachers finished the session with Superintendent James and the following is the assignment of teachers adopted:

High school—Homer P. Lewis, principal; Levan Loviston, assistant principal; S. D. Beals, Louis J. Blake, Myron W. Richardson, A. M. Berman, Samantha R. Davis, Belle H. Lewis, Stacia Currier, Decie A. Johnston, Elizabeth C. Goodson, S. M. Robertson, Grace B. Southworth, J. H. Howard.

Augustus Moore, Editor of the London Hawk, Severely Censured.

London, Sept. 6.—The New York Herald called special attention to the London Hawk, a weekly paper published in London, which has been severely censured for its attacks on the British government.

As he said this the artist's cane came down with a sounding thump.

"Put down your club," said Moore, "and I'll give you the finest thrashing you ever had. You are just brave enough to attack a defenseless opponent."

Stung by this remark Whistler prepared to get up again with his blows, but the crowd gathered about and prevented renewed hostilities. Mr. Whistler hereupon threw down his cane and left the theatre. What Mr. Moore will do in the matter remains to be seen.

It Places the Eighth Ward Democrats in a Ridiculous Light.

The Eighth ward democrats, to the number of about fifty, met at Schroeder's hall, corner of Cuming and Twenty-fourth streets, last night, George Christofferson and County Attorney Mahoney were the orators of the occasion.

At the conclusion of Mr. Mahoney's speech an undertaking for organizing the party was made, and the democrats present were left in a quagmire as to just where they stood in the democratic party.

After a number of other pertinent questions from Mr. Pileher the meeting adjourned, and the democrats present were left in a quagmire as to just where they stood in the democratic party.

Amusements.

"Dorothy" reminiscence of the days of our forefathers, when the powdered wig and the scent of pomatum figured as the sign manual of the gentlemen, was produced last evening at the Boyd by the Carleton opera company.

And in many respects the last performance was the best. There is a dainty flavor about the opera which quite captivates the auditor, and somehow or other he sighs for a return of these halcyon days which died when George quit the throne of the mother country.

The music is bright and interesting, but there is little of the catchy quality about it that has distinguished the work of Sullivan, when Collier, the composer of "Dorothy," is to be successful. The "Huntsman Song" and "The Hunt" are the only numbers of Mr. Carleton's quite above the ordinary, but outside of these and one or two concerted numbers, the opera is a very ordinary phenomenon run on the other side.

Yet one cannot help but appreciate its dainty flavor even though the libretto be exceedingly badly written.

Miss Lane as Dorothy was in excellent voice and presented a charming picture in her costly and old gown. Mr. Carleton as Wilder, Mr. Bigelow as Lurich and Mr. Murray as the squire carried off the honors of the performance as they have done on every other occasion.

Geisler Bound Over.

Dr. Geisler, who was arrested upon a charge of adultery with Mrs. Van Wagner, was tried before Judge Helsley yesterday afternoon. The principal witnesses for the prosecution were the two young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Van Wagner. They stated that they had seen the doctor kiss their mother in his bedroom several times and told of many other actions that showed the drift of things between Mrs. Van Wagner and the alleged seducer.

Geisler was bound over in bonds of $200 to appear at the next term of the district court. He furnished bail and was released.
